STOVES! STOVES!! STOVES!!!

D. H. STOUFFER,

Has just received the largest assortment of Stoves ever brought to this city, comprising New and beautiful styles of Cook, Parlor, Room and Office Stoves, suited to places from the Palace to the Cottage. Also in stock

A GENERAL ASSORTMENT OF HARDWARE,

CUTLERY,

TEA AND TABLE SPOONS, KNIVES, FORKS, SPOONS, BUTTS, HINGES, SCREWS, BOLTS, HOOKS, SHOVELS, SPADES, HOES, RAKES, CHAINS, Also, TINWARE, PIPE, ZINC, &c.

Which he will sell at the cheapest cash prices. Call and see for yourselves. Shop in the corner of Market and Mill streets, Mt. Carroll, Ill.

Mt. Carroll, April 26, 1858.—1y.

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATION.

Extract Buchu!

For Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Dropsy, Gravel, Stone and Gravel, Dropsical Swellings, Rheumatism, Gout, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Jaundice, Diseases of the Skin, Eruptions, Pimples, Blotches, Scurvy, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Tetter, Scald Head, Venereal Diseases

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Read the local news, and our editorial to the Ladies.

Read the Sheriff's sales, and the Auditor's notice.

Read the Ladies' Department

Wit and Sentiment.

'None of your cubical reflections,' as the old saint said to the looking-glass.

A venerable maiden lady, speaking of marriage, says 'It is the only other disease, with which there is little to hope.'

Married at Hempstead, Mr. Joseph H. Long to Miss Mary Ann Little.

'Man wants but Long,' we have below,
But wants that Little Long.'

☞ A boy, at a recent examination in an English school, was asked 'who discovered America.' 'I wish I may die,' says a British editor, 'if he didn't answer, 'Yankee Doodle.''

☞ A cotemporary, noticing the appointment of a friend as postmaster, says:

'If he attends to the mails as well as he does to the females, he will make a very attentive and efficient officer.'

☞ 'Which, my dear lady, do you think the nearest place in the world?' 'That immediately above the atmosphere that surrounds the earth, I sho'd think.'

'And why so?' 'Because, I am told, there, all bodies lose their gravity.'

☞ A few days since, a barber offered a reward of $10 for the best recipe for "instantly removing superfluous hair." Among the answers was one forwarded by a gentleman who speaks from experience. We give it—"Undertake to kiss a woman against her will."

Economy.—'Oh, eat it up, dear—eat it up,' says mamma. 'I can't, ma, I've ate enough.' 'Oh, yes, dear, eat up what's on your plate, so that it needn't be lost.' How common a practice this is; stuffing children beyond the wants of nature, and making them gluttons all their lives, so that the scraps need not be lost.

Precious economy this!

☞ When Aristides, so remarkable for his inviolable attachment to justice, was tried by the people at Athens and condemned to banishment, a peasant who was unacquainted with the person of Aristides, applied to him to vote against Aristides. 'Has he done you any wrong,' said Aristides, 'that you are for punishing him in this manner?' 'No,' replied the countryman, 'I don't even know him; but I am tired and angry with hearing every one call him the just.'

Irritable Christians.—There was a clergyman, who was of a nervous temperament, and often became quite vexed by finding his little grandchildren in his study. One day, one of these children was standing by his mother's side, and she was speaking to him of heaven. 'Ma,' said he, 'I don't want to go to heaven.' 'Do not want to go to heaven, my son?' 'No, ma, I am sure I don't.' 'Why not, my son?' 'Why grandpa will be there, won't he?' 'Why, yes, I hope he will.' 'Well, as soon as he sees us there, he will come scolding along, and say, 'Whew, whew, whew, what are these boys here for?' I don't want to go to heaven, if grandpa is going to be there.'

An Atheist Convicted.—Sir Isaac Newton having an acquaintance who denied the existence of a Supreme Being, took the following method to convince him of his error upon his own principles: Expecting him on a visit, he procured a very handsome globe of the starry heavens, which could not escape his friends observation; who seized the first occasion to ask from whence it came, and to whom it belonged. 'Not me,' said Sir Isaac, 'nor was it ever made by any person, but came here by chance!' 'That,' replied his skeptical friend, 'is absolutely impossible; you surely jest.' Sir Isaac, however, seriously persisting in his assertions, took occasion to reason with his friend upon his own atheistical principle. 'You will not,' said he, 'believe that this small body originated by chance, and yet you would contend that those heavenly bodies, of which it is a faint diminutive resemblance, came into existence without order or design?' Pursuing this chain of reasoning, his friend was at first confounded, in the next place convicted, and ultimately joined in cordial acknowledgement of the absurdity of denying the existence of a God.

The Drop of Water, the Brook, the River, and the Ocean

A drop of water that sparkled like a jewel in the sun, once fell from the clouds into a little mountain stream, and ere it lost its identity exclaimed in all the anguish of desolation

'Alas! what a catastrophe! I am swallowed up in immensity.' The little stream laughed, as it leaped down the mountain side, at the lamentation of such an insignificant thing as a drop of water; and vain of its consequence, continued brawling its crystal way, with all the pride of conscious superiority, till at length, with a sudden plunge, it fell headlong into a mighty river, and, like the drop of water, was lost in a moment, crying out in its last agonies 'O fate, who would have thought a brook of my size could be swallowed so easily.' The river murmured in its contempt for the foolish little stream, and continued its course, gathering strength and pride, breaking through mountains, tearing the rocks from the seats, and coursing in a thousand meanders through flowery meadows, till it found its way to the vast and melancholy ocean, in whose boundless waste it lost its being, like the drop of water and the little mountain stream. 'Is it possible,' exclaimed the mighty river, 'that I have been thus collecting tribute from half the world, only to become nothing at last.'

'Tis thus with the man.' Thus beginnes in insignificance, like the drop of water; thus becomes a langhing, roaring, brawling thing, like the brook; and grows proud and great, like the river; and ere thou canst say, 'illustrious mortality, heart, 'What an is eternity.' [illegible] thou art lost.

MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS

[illegible] Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are not only enter the stomach, but immediately united with the blood, for they find way to every part and, combining with it, cleanse the system from all impurity, and the life of the body, which is the blood, becomes perfect health; consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system, for they cannot remain where the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the affected parts, and which will open the nearest passages for the disease, to wind out, leaving a large quantity of food and other matter to indigest, and the diseases, pains and sensitiveness are thereby overcoming with the corrupted mass, thus undergoing fermentative fermentation, constantly offering with the blood, which throughout every vein and artery, until taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's Pills have proved to themselves victory over disease, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked, or tormented with sickness, pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been reduced by the burning of fevers, and which raging fever and ague have begun to brought, as it were, within a step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for the great and wonderful medicine, Morse's Indian Root Pills. A few one or two doses had been taken, there are no sensible and astonishing surprised, or otherwise the charming effects. Very soon do they gain increase in [illegible] and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but there is another great work of the foundation of the disease which is the blood. Therefore it will be extreme poverty to those who use these Pills, that they will not cleanse and purify the disease, the double effects will then be that, and the seeds of health and happiness in all cases. Why will the great part of a long and miserable life of sickness and sufferings [illegible] days.

Caution. Beware of a counterfeit, signed A. B. Morse. All genuine have the signature of A. B. Morse & Co. on each box. Also the signature of A. J. White & Co. all others are spurious. A. J. WHITE & CO.

Sole Proprietors, 56 Leonard Street, New York.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas Ralph Anderson, and Catharine his wife, and Harvey E. Anderson and Ann Anderson, his wife, did, on the twelfth day of February, A. D. 1855, make and deliver to me, the undersigned, a certain Deed of Trust to secure the payment of two promissory notes bearing date on said day, and payable to our joint order, to the order of Abner Thompson, of the Eight Hundred and Seventy Five Dollars, and signed by R. E. Anderson and Ralph Anderson, and the other note being for one Hundred and Fifty Dollars, and signed by Ralph Anderson, Jun. R. Sheely, and H. E. Anderson, which said Deed of Trust was recorded in the Recorder's office, of Carroll County, Illinois, on the 20th day of February, in book 4 of Mortgages, pages 305 and 306, and default having been made in the payment of said notes, and said Deed of Trust, the legal holder of said notes having applied to me, the undersigned, to sell so much of said real estate described in said Deed of Trust mentioned and described, as may be sufficient to pay said notes, and the costs and expenses of said sale, and the trust in said Deed of Trust created, I, therefore, on Friday, the ninth day of April, A. D. 1858, at the hour of one o'clock in the afternoon, at the dwelling house in the premises, in said Deed of Trust mentioned and described, in said County, will, the premises in said Deed of Trust mentioned, situate, lying, and being in the County of Carroll, and State of Illinois, and described as follows, to wit: The south half of section No. five (5), in township No. twenty (20) north, and north half of section No. eight (8), in township No. twenty (20) north, all in range No. one (1) east of the third principal meridian, containing one hundred and twenty acres, more or less, sell at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash in hand, to satisfy said notes and said costs and expenses of said sale, and said trust created in said Deed of Trust. Dated this 12th day of March, A. D. 1858. R. H. CLARK, Trustee.

Mt. Carroll, March 16, A. D. 1858. 3w

HELMBOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATION OF Highly Concentrated Compound Fluid Extract Buchu, for Diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Weakness, Nervous Debility, Loss of Power, Confusion, and all the train of evils consequent on the indiscretion, arising from Excesses and Impositions in the Marriage relation, or Secret Habits, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause they may have arisen, and at any age or period of life. Strong minds and Vigor to the Frame, and Bloom to the Pale cheek are look to you. Attention! Invalids, Young or Middle-aged Men, and Bachelors, and unknown all the symptoms, among which will be found Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, Nervous Weakness, Horror of Disease, Dim Sight, Pain in the Head, Dizziness, Universal Prostration, and Lassitude, Cold Hands and Feet, Pain in the Back, Hot Flashes, Eruptions on the Face, Pain in the Limbs, Dullness of Hearing, Cold Sweats, Blue Spots, Flying Pains, Trembling, Wakefulness, Dryness of the Skin, Pain in the Side, Nervous Irritation, Sudden Flushes of Heat, Spasms, Nervous Jerkings, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Face, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritation, Nervous Prostration, or Nervous Weakness, the Vices of Boyhood, Manhood, or Maturity, Seminal